

IN-SONORA blossoms

After seven years evolving as a referent in the field of Sound and Interactive Art, the seventh edition of the show arrives this Spring, bringing a lot of innovative proposals.

IN-SONORA is a platform created to give support to and disseminate experimental artistic proposals related to interactivity and/or sound, from a wide and multi-disciplinary point of view..

Organized by commissioners Maite Camacho and Betania Lozano, the show has taken place since 2005, involving different cultural spaces around the whole city of Madrid.

Installations, public-space intervention, live-events, hearing-pieces, net-art, videos and presentations can be seen for free from March 7th to April 22th in spaces like Museo Nacional Centro de Arte Reina Sofía, Matadero Madrid, Casa Árabe, Medialab Prado, IED - Istituto Europeo di Design Madrid, Off Limits, Espacio Menosuno, Twin Gallery and Espacio Trapézio.

The goal is to give visibility to emerging national and international artists. In its seventh edition, the show will have a total of 30 names from 14 different countries, chosen after an open and public call in April last year.

With more than 400 proposals received, a selection was made looking for works with hybrid personality, developed by artists from several origins, that converge in Sound Art and Interactivity with the public.

“We are interested in this mixing, freedom value. The creation of community and linking between artists, the venues, the public and the show”

Maite Camacho - commissioner

“IN-SONORA is an independent proposal collective created thanks to the support of venues of different nature, some institutional supporters and the continued work of a team with a lot of spirit”

Betania Lozano - commissioner

Besides being an annual show, IN-SONORA also works as a cultural association, coordinating exhibitions, artists meetings and workshops in different countries, with the intention of exporting culture, building collective work and spreading less conventional proposals.

Between these external projects, stands the collaboration with IDFX (Breda, Holland) and its Festival of Light and Sound Interference in 2009 and 2009, occasions in which several Spanish artists developed and showed their work together with other international artists. “New sounds, new territories” (Salento, Italy), artists residence in collaboration with SoundRes and the coordination of Anna Raimondo, in which 3 national artists worked on the soundscape. Also, “Saout Meeting” (Tetuán, Marrocco) artists residence in collaboration with INBA and the French Institute and the coordination of Younes Baba-Alí, in which 5 national artists showcased their work, produced a project inside a different context, taught open workshops to city students and presented cycles of sound and video pieces.

Following the same spirit, in 2010 an important management work was developed together with Lucía Cavalchini and Ana Montiel from the team at Transonica (Mexico DF and Guanajato). As a result, workshops were taught by Alfredo Morte and Alberto Cerro, a seminar held by Chiu Longina, conferences and meetings with local artists, installations, exhibitions, sounds, videos, hearing-pieces and net.ar, as well as helping in the production of a new project. Also, along this year and during the whole 2012, INSONORA has commissioned different specific projects to other related festivals: ARTE SONoro OFF (La Casa Encendida), SON (Auditorio Nacional de Música de Madrid) and the Music International Day (Ayuntamiento the Madrid), among others.

Crowdfunding Micromecenazgo

In the current situation of crisis and cuts, the show is inviting its public and collaborators to act as micro-sponsors through funding platforms - the recently opened La Tahona Cultural (latahonacultural.es) until March 3th and also in Verkami (www.verkamin.com) from that date.

Any person can make a contribution of 5€ to 150€, with the goal to collect 3.000€ over 45 days. Depending on the value, the show rewards you in different ways - from a mention on the website to a free official catalog of previous editions.
